One Bedroom Flat to Rent – Bright and Spacious – Period Features – Modern Kitchen – Contemporary Bathroom – Tastefully Decorated – Great Ealing Location – Fantastic Transport Links.

This one bedroom flat is a rare treasure for discerning tenants. The property's exterior gives off a grand impression, with its Edwardian features and secluded entrance portal. The interior of the flat does the exterior justice, as it has been decorated to a very high standard. The immaculate white walls, painted ceiling timbers, and carpeted flooring makes the reception room rather welcoming, and the period fireplace provides an interesting conversation centrepiece. The kitchen is designed in a sophisticated, modern fashion, and includes first rate appliances, wooden worktops, and attractive skylights. The bathroom is outfitted with up to date fittings and furnished in a tasteful style, whilst the bedroom can easily accommodate for a double bed and has plenty of storage.

Marchwood Crescent is in a popular and particularly beautiful area of Ealing. The flat is next to St. Benedict's Abbey, which is a breath-taking historical building and sets the tone for the architecture in the neighbourhood. Furthermore, the flat is within a half mile of Ealing Broadway Station, so access to Central London is very convenient. The bars, shops and restaurants of Ealing Broadway itself is within a mile, as well as the wide variety of amenities on offer. Green spaces are not hard to come by in Ealing, and this is evident in Haven Green and Pitshanger Park - both within a mile of the property.
